

The Leaking Truth

14th Post - Reverse Telepathy? (Concept/Idea...)

March 04, 2024

For some of the problems we are facing right now this idea is a broad concept idea at the moment but think for a second how beneficial it could potentially prove to be if implemented correctly and for the right reasons? Think of what we could do if you could somehow have a data feed connection into the problem source that I think we all know about right now. If all of us somehow together were to in-act such a problem with said solution think of how we could possibly solve a major problem here! It's in-genius if it was to work properly as intended, the people together could unite to solve a major challenge here as one unit! It's simple, elegant, and effective if pulled off correctly the first time.

I've updated the page with the Microsoft Logs I have pulled from my machine that have some information that could possibly inspire someone else out there on how exactly this could be effectively done so I have given you possibly a tool/source to start with and evaluate and critically think on. Keep in mind this should only be attempted with positive interests at heart here for all of us as a whole, I think you might know what problem I'm talking about here especially if you are here right now reading this...

Think *69... your welcome!

UPDATE: This could have seriously possible major problems with it as a downside if used impurely for negative intentions, I'm not wanting to dive down that rabbit hole right now but keep in mind there could BE USEFUL intentions for this BUT there could prove to be a downside here, but if any upsides can be built on and added on to it for increased security and purposefulness here then it might be worth it, think outside the box now and think abstractly how to build on this idea constructively and maybe we might have something here...
